Domaine Joseph Voillot 2024 Meursault PC Les Cras

Straw, yellow apple peel and cinnamon sticks whoosh from the glass. Charmingly vinous with lightly plump fruit on the mid-palate, this has thirst-quenching acidity to carry the flavors into a leisurely finish. Alas, there is just one barrel.

Domaine Joseph Voillot 2024 Pommard PC Les Pézerolles

One of the Premier Crus with new oak (30%), this is more dark and brooding for it. Firm, classically Pommardian tannins spread across the generously-fruited palate as the supporting acidity sits in the wings. Forest berries, black plums and a whisper of graphite give this quite the swagger. Don't touch this for at least six to eight years.

Quite backward at the moment, this needs time to unfold. The cobbler berries are complemented by milk chocolate and grated spices. The wall-to-wall tannins are long and gently grippy. Give this at least seven to eight years. Like all of the Pommard crus at this domaine, these vines are in their early 60s.

Domaine Joseph Voillot 2024 Volnay PC Les Caillerets

Dashingly floral on the nose, this offers a succulent palate dense with red and black fruits. Etienne Chaix described the palate feel as “velour—soft with lots of volume.” The flourishing finish with soaring freshness points to a decidedly age-worthy wine. There are no new barrels here, just two, twice-used barrels. This is one of the smallest crus of the domaine.

Domaine Joseph Voillot 2024 Volnay PC Les Champans

In contrast to the Fremiets, this is a lighter and more lively Volnay with crisp red fruits and a hint of damp earth. Raspberries, red currants and lingonberries tingle the palate. The structure is thoroughly integrated, leaving the taster to relish the elegant finish. With plantings from 1934, 1971 and 1985, the average age in the '24 vintage was 69 years old.

Rather sultry and come-hither, this lays on the black cherries and dark chocolate—the latter a nod to the 25% new oak. Medium in body with velvety tannins and supporting acidity, this is set to sweep you off your feet.

Domaine Joseph Voillot 2024 Pommard PC Clos Micault

A small Premier Cru and the same size as the Caillerets, these vines managed only one barrel (once-used oak) this year. It's an impressively delicate Pommard with bushels of blueberries, sweetly ripe tannins and an elegant back-palate arch of mouthwatering acidity. Incredibly pretty.
